DIRECTIONS

The Catskill Scenic Trail (CST) is located in New York State on the western side of the Catskill Mountains. You will find the trail an hour south of Albany, three hours northwest of New York City and an hour east of Binghamton. It runs along the West Branch of the Delaware River and NYS routes 10 and 23.

The trail can be accessed at various points but we recommend you use designated parking areas. You will find parking at the historic Stamford Depot at the intersection of Railroad Avenue and South Street in the Village of Stamford. There is also a parking lot north of Route 10, just east of the village of Bloomville.

If you opt to access the trail at other grade crossings, please be careful. Park on the side of the road and do not block the flow of traffic, driveways, fire hydrants or the trail.

The Catskill Scenic Trail is marked with octagonal signs that show the distance to the trailhead in the direction you are facing. While there is only a four hundred foot change in elevation over the entire nineteen miles, Stamford is the peak and it is downhill in both directions from there.

CATSKILL MOUNTAINS

The Catskill Scenic Trail lies on top of the former rail bed of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad. This 19-mile Rails to Trails project offers a hard-packed surface that makes it perfect for hiking, biking, horseback riding and cross-country skiing. The trail's very gentle grade is a unique feature, with only a four hundred foot change in elevation over the entire 19 miles. The young and young-at-heart will find this an easy trek through some of the most beautiful scenery in the world.

If you would like a more challenging hike consider the Utsayantha Trail System. These trails offer wonderful views and a chance to hike through mature forests. The trail intersects the Catskill Scenic Trail at several locations around Stamford. For more information on the Utsayantha Trail System call 607-652-7581.
